

PHILOSOPHY (PHIL)

This is a list of the Philosophy (PHIL) courses available at Kwantlen.

PHIL 1100 CR-3

Introduction to Philosophy

Students will study central topics in the major areas of philosophy. They will examine a variety of philosophical perspectives on issues such as mind-body problem, the nature of reality, the limits of human knowledge, morality and moral judgement, and the justification of religious beliefs.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 1101 CR-3 (formerly HUMN 1100)

Philosophy, Culture, and Identity

Students will be introduced-through literary and philosophical works-to issues connected with how the modern identity is formed and how it is constituted in Western culture.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 1106 CR-3

Introduction To Ancient And Medieval Philosophy

Students will study English translations of some of the standard philosophical texts from the ancient and medieval periods. They will also learn to apply methods of philosophical analysis to these texts.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 1110 CR-3

Confronting Moral Issues: Introduction to Ethics

Students will consider the meaning and justification of moral judgments by examining various views on whether or not morality has an objective basis. They will be introduced to leading theories of ethical conduct and will learn to apply these theories to contemporary moral problems and workaday situations.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 1111 CR-3

Sustainability: Analysis and Ethics

Students will study elements of traditional philosophy courses such as critical thinking, philosophy of science, and ethics to provide a detailed analysis of a variety of concepts of sustainability. They will examine sustainability policies and practices related to the environment, social equity, and economics.

Note: This course is cross-listed with POST 1100. Students may not get credit for both courses.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 1112 CR-3

Environmental Ethics

Students will examine central problems in environmental ethics. They will investigate the philosophical implications of various views about humans' relationship to nature, and consider such topics as the extent of our obligations to non-human animals, to the environment, and to future generations.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 1145 CR-3

Critical Thinking

Students will study the process of argument reconstruction and evaluation. They will focus on skills necessary that will enable them to distinguish argumentative from non-argumentative writing, rationally persuasive from rhetorically persuasive arguments, and strong from weak arguments. Students will be expected to analyze arguments from a variety of contexts such as newspaper editorials, advertising and surveys.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 1150 CR-3

Introduction to Formal Logic

Students will study the basic techniques of formal deductive logic. They will learn the semantics and syntax of two artificial languages-sentential logic (SL) and predicate logic (PL)-with emphasis given to the former. With the aid of the formal techniques learned in this course, students will gain insight into the nature of rational argument and sound reasoning.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 1155 CR-3

Introduction to Scientific Reasoning

Students will examine the methodology behind arguments and experimentation in science, including the careful analysis of data, measurement of probability, and the formulation of various explanatory hypotheses. In so doing, they will become familiar, not only with how scientists go about their work, but with the philosophical foundations of scientific reasoning.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2106 CR-3

Ancient Greek Philosophy

Students will examine the philosophical developments in ancient Greece that gave rise to Western Philosophy, with particular emphasis on one or more of Socrates, Plato or Aristotle.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2107 CR-3 (formerly PHIL 1107)

Modern Philosophy: Descartes to Kant

Students will study some of the major philosophical texts from the modern period, beginning from the time of Descartes. They will apply methods of philosophical analysis to these texts in the exploration of epistemological, metaphysical, ethical and social-political questions.

Prerequisites: 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2110 CR-3

Moral Theory

Students will examine some of the major normative ethical theories. They will study classic works representing the major ethical traditions, including virtue theory, deontology, social contract theory, and utilitarianism. They will examine concepts such as duty, virtue, well-being or happiness, and right action. Students will obtain a critical grasp of these ethical theories and concepts by reading classic works.

Prerequisites: 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2115 CR-3Asian Philosophy

Students will critically examine selected representative schools of philosophy in Asian traditions, including Hinduism, Confucianism, Taoism, and Zen Buddhism. They will explore such topics as reality, self, knowledge, ethics, and death.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2117 CR-3Social and Political Philosophy

Students will examine selected central problems in social and political philosophy. They will investigate such topics as the justification of the state, the tension between individual freedom and social constraint, and theories of social justice.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2120 CR-3 (formerly PHIL 1120)Philosophy of Religion

Students will examine arguments for and against the existence of God, as well as other traditional problems of theology, from a philosophical perspective. In the course of such examinations, they will use both classic and contemporary sources.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2150 CR-3Philosophical Paradoxes, Puzzles and Enigmas

Students will study the history of the paradox, extending from the ancient Greeks, through the Middle Ages, the Enlightenment, and into the twentieth century. They will get a glimpse into the minds of Zeno, Socrates, Aquinas, Ockham, Pascal, Kant, Quine, Russell, and other major philosophers as they grapple with the twists and turns of philosophical riddles, sometimes finding answers and sometimes not.

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2210 CR-3 (formerly PHIL 1210)Epistemology

Students will study traditional themes in epistemology. Using classical and contemporary readings, they will examine problems related to the justification of beliefs, the nature of truth, and theories describing the foundations of knowledge.

Prerequisites: 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 2215 CR-3 (formerly PHIL 1211)Metaphysics

Students will study some of the main traditional topics of metaphysics. Using classical and contemporary readings, they will investigate problems related to mind-body interactionism, space and time, free will and fatalism, and theories of reality and truth.

Prerequisites: 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3010 CR-3Health Care Ethics

Students will study various ethical and meta-ethical theories and will apply them to moral dilemmas in health care at the clinical, professional, and organizational levels. They will analyze various case studies that will help them develop competence in moral reasoning as it relates to personal, professional, and societal values-including (but not restricted to) the abortion and euthanasia debates, patient autonomy and the right to refuse treatment, two-tier health care, allocation of scarce resources, patient abuse and management of patient behaviour, alternative therapies, and the patient-caregiver relationship.

Note: This course is intended for Bachelor of Psychiatric Nursing and the Bachelor of Science in Nursing. It will not count as upper-level PHIL credits for Philosophy BA degree programs.

PHIL 3033 CR-3 (formerly ENTR 3033)Business Ethics

Students will study various ethical and meta-ethical theories, and will apply them in standard business contexts, such as employer-employee relations, risk analysis, occupational and product safety, environmental protection, and multinational practices. Students will acquire the tools to allow them to make ethical business decisions.

PHIL 3040 CR-3Philosophy of Art

Students will investigate central questions about the nature and value of art (e.g., painting, sculpture, music, literature, and film). They will critically examine attempts to answer questions such as the following: What is art? Is there a difference between aesthetic judgments and mere judgments of taste or subjective preference? What is beauty? Should moral considerations affect our evaluations of art?

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3100 CR-3Great Philosophers of the 20th Century

Students will examine the life, work, and influence of one or more notable 20th Century philosopher(s). They will apply principles of rhetoric and philosophical analysis through close reading of selected texts, informed discussion, and formal writing.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3101 CR-3 (formerly PHIL 2101)20th Century Analytic Philosophy

Students will acquire a detailed historical and conceptual framework for the assessment of 20th Century philosophical analysis. They will study issues raised by Russell and others near the beginning of the 20th Century. Students will then consider the historical and conceptual unfolding of various alternative approaches to these issues by later 20th Century analytical philosophers. They will focus on a technical examination of concepts such as: truth, reference, description, and meaning.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor

Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3105 CR-3Life and Death

Students will study various ethical and metaphysical issues surrounding human existence and mortality. In particular, they will investigate the two central questions, "What is a good life?" and "Is death bad for the person who dies?" Using a variety of philosophical sources, they may also examine a number of related issues, including the possibility of life after death, the relationship between personal identity and immortality, the reasons why killing is generally considered wrong, and the moral status of abortion, euthanasia, and suicide.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3109 CR-3 (formerly PHIL 2109)Foundations in Ethics

Students will investigate central questions about the nature and foundations of ethical judgement. They will examine a variety of perspectives on such issues as the objectivity and prescriptivity of moral judgement.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3110 CR-3The Possibility of Knowledge

Students will investigate central questions about the nature and foundations of epistemic judgement. They will examine a variety of perspectives on such issues as the justification of knowledge claims and the internalism/externalism debate in epistemology.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3118 CR-3Ethics and Public Policy

Students will critically examine ethical issues in public policy through readings in classic and/or contemporary texts. They will consider topics such as policy governing life and death, sex and reproduction, freedom of speech, punishment, and the environment.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3119 CR-3 (formerly PHIL 2119)Contemporary Moral Theory

Students will consider selected problems associated with various philosophical approaches to morality. They will investigate standard moral perspectives such as Utilitarianism, Kantianism, Contractarianism, Feminist Ethics, and Virtue Theory, in order to assess their philosophical strengths and weaknesses by introducing theoretical as well as practical considerations.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3120 CR-3Free Will and Determinism

Students will examine the philosophical problems involved in assigning moral responsibility in a world governed by causes which are, ultimately, outside of our control. Using both classic and contemporary sources, they will evaluate the reasoning behind deterministic theories that deny the reality of free will, claiming that all events, including human actions, have prior causes that render them inevitable.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3150 CR-3 (formerly PHIL 1250)Advanced Formal Logic

Students will be introduced to contemporary symbolic logic. They will gain a working understanding of some symbolic languages, propositional logic and first-order predicate logic. Students will also discuss syntax and semantics at an elementary level, and soundness and completeness of first-order logical systems will be proved.

Prerequisites: PHIL 1150 or 3 credits of MATH 1000-level or higher or permission of the instructor.
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3220 CR-3Empiricism

Students will study the motivations and influence of empiricism—the epistemological theory that genuine information about the world must be acquired by a posteriori or experiential means, so that nothing can be thought without first being sensed. They will analyze and compare the views of prominent empiricists such as Francis Bacon, John Locke, George Berkeley, David Hume, and John Stuart Mill.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor.
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3225 CR-3Rationalism

Students will study the motivations and influence of rationalism—the epistemological view that regards reason as the chief source and test of knowledge. They will analyze and compare the views of prominent rationalists such as René Descartes, Benedict Spinoza, Gottfried Leibniz, and Immanuel Kant.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor.
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3320 CR-3Personal Identity

Students will investigate various philosophical puzzles surrounding the problem of personal identity. In particular, they will contemplate the central metaphysical question, under what circumstances is a person existing at one time identical with a person existing at another time? Students will also examine problems related to the connection between personal identity and physical continuity, the psychological underpinnings of selfhood, and the relationship between personal identity and immortality.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor.
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 3425 CR-3Language and Meaning

Students will examine the nature of language through the study of topics such as truth, reference, meaning, linguistic structure, speech acts and context of use.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100 level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of instructor. PHIL 1150 is recommended.

PHIL 3430 CR-3Philosophy of Mind: Consciousness

Students will investigate central questions about the nature of consciousness and the place of the mind in the physical world. They will examine competing approaches to the explanation of mental phenomena.

PHIL 3510 CR-3Confronting Moral Issues: Bio-medical Ethics

Students will examine moral problems, and proposed solutions to moral problems, in the context of health care. They will focus on case studies drawn from the bio-medical and health care fields.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100 level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of instructor.

PHIL 3512 CR-3Confronting Moral Issues: The Natural Environment

Students will examine moral problems, and proposed solutions to moral problems, that pertain to the environment and human interaction with the environment. Students will examine content drawn from current issues.

PHIL 3533 CR-3Confronting Moral Issues: Business Ethics

Students will examine moral problems and proposed solutions to moral problems that arise in a business context. They will apply moral theories and models for decision-making to specific scenarios.

Prerequisites: 18 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 3 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor.

PHIL 3900 CR-3Honours Research and Thesis I

Students will conduct a literature review on a topic chosen in consultation with the instructor. They will explore a topic, narrow the topic and formulate a significant research problem. Students will carry out preliminary interpretive and analytical work on the problem.

Note: This course is the first part of a two-course series which culminates in an honours thesis. PHIL 4900 is the second part of the series.

Prerequisites: 24 credits PHIL courses with at least a B+ and the permission of the Philosophy Department Honours Committee

PHIL 4040 CR-3Topics in the Philosophy of Art

Students will study a selected topic or body of work in the philosophy of art. Using a variety of classic and contemporary sources, they will consider one or more problems related to the nature of art (e.g., art as imitation, art as representation, art as expression, the relationship between art and form, the relationship between art and the aesthetic experience) or the nature of a specific form of art (e.g., painting, sculpture, music, literature, film). Students will discuss topics(s) that may be associated with a particular movement, time period, or philosophical figure.

Note: This is a seminar-based course. The specific course content will be established in advance by the instructor.

Prerequisites: 60 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 6 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 4110 CR-3Topics in Ethics

Students will engage in an in-depth study of a selected topic in applied ethics, normative ethics, or metaethics, which may be associated with a particular movement, time period, or philosophical figure.

Note: This is a seminar-based course. Students may take this course more than once, as topics vary, with permission of the department chair. The topic in a given semester will be determined in advance by the department. Please check with the department for the current topic.

Prerequisites: 60 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 6 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 4117 CR-3Topics in Social and Political Philosophy

Students will study a selected theme, issue, or body of work in the area of socio-political philosophy. They will examine one or more theoretical approaches-e.g., Marxism, feminism, liberalism, communitarianism, post-modern political theory-and then consider the implications of the examined approach(es) for issues like the nation state, globalization, restructuring, and the social policies surrounding welfare and health care.

Note: This is a seminar-based course. Students may take this course more than once, as topics vary, with permission of the department chair. The topic in a given semester will be determined in advance by the department. Please check with the department for the current topic.

Co-requisites: 60 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 6 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor 60 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 6 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 4120 CR-3Topics in Philosophy of Religion

Students will study a selected theme, issue, or body of work in the philosophy of religion. Using a variety of textual sources and strict principles of philosophical analysis, they will consider one or more problems related to traditional arguments for God's existence, arguments against the existence of God, the role of faith in religious belief, the status of miracles, the relationship between science and religion, or the relationship between religion and morality.

Note: This is a seminar-based course. The specific course content will be established in advance by the instructor.

Prerequisites: 60 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 6 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 4210 CR-3Topics in Epistemology

Students will study a selected topic or body of work in the field of epistemology. Using a variety of classic and contemporary sources, they will consider one or more themes related to defining knowledge, scepticism and the Pyrrhonian problem, foundationalism and coherentism, epistemic justification, contextualism and relativism, epistemology and science, or the relationship between epistemology and human cognition. Students will discuss topics(s) that may be associated with a particular movement, time period, or philosophical figure.

Note: This is a seminar-based course. Students may take this course more than once, as topics vary, with permission of the department chair. The topic in a given semester will be determined in advance by the department. Please check with the department for the current topic.

Prerequisites: 60 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 6 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 4215 CR-3Topics in Metaphysics

Students will study a selected topic or body of work in the field of metaphysics. Using a variety of classic and contemporary sources, they will consider one or more themes related to the nature of universals and particulars, time and space, appearance and reality, persistence and change, personal identity, free will and determinism, causation, the nature of physical substance, or the feasibility of metaphysics as a genuine philosophical pursuit. Students will discuss topic(s) that may be associated with a particular movement, time period, or philosophical figure.

Note: This is a seminar-based course. Students may take this course more than once, as topics vary, with permission of the department chair. The topic in a given semester will be determined in advance by the department. Please check with the department for the current topic.

Prerequisites: 60 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 6 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 4430 CR-3Topics in Philosophy of Mind

Students will study a selected theme, issue, or body of work in the philosophy of mind. Using a variety of textual sources and strict principles of philosophical analysis, they will consider one or more problems related to the traditional mind-body debate, the nature of consciousness, mental causation, psycho-physical supervenience, or intentionality. Students will discuss topics(s) that may be associated with a particular movement, time period, or philosophical figure.

Note: This is a seminar-based course. Students may take this course more than once, as topics vary, with permission of the department chair. The topic in a given semester will be determined in advance by the department. Please check with the department for the current topic.

Prerequisites: 60 credits of 1100-level courses or higher including any 6 credits of PHIL or permission of the instructor
Transferable (refer to transfer guide)

PHIL 4900 CR-3Honours Research and Thesis II

Students will develop a philosophical position on a research question while working closely with the instructor. They will prepare an extended written discussion of the position developed in a format typical of articles in professional philosophical journals or otherwise suitable as an honours thesis.

Note: This course is a continuation of PHIL 3900.

Prerequisites: PHIL 3900 with at least a B+ and permission of the Philosophy Department Honours Committee
