

Dear colleagues,

The Teaching & Learning Commons team has developed some resources which we hope will provide you with some ideas and guidance as you plan for the final assessments for your Spring 2020 courses. These resources have been posted to the "Redesigning Assessments" page on the Keep Teaching site. They include a set of 10 tips for maintaining academic integrity with online assessments and a flow chart to help you think through your options for final assessments (see attached).

Separately, we are also pleased to share the latest blog post on our "Friday Morning Coffee" blog. Written by Seanna Takacs, Educational Consultant in Universal Design for Learning, it is titled: UDL and Moving Online.

Thank you very much and have a restful weekend,
The Teaching & Learning Commons team
